

Peer review

This core area addresses the purpose of peer review in determining merit for research funding and publications. This includes topics such as the definition of peer review, impartiality, how peer review works, editorial boards and ad hoc reviewers, responsibilities of the reviewers, privileged information, and confidentiality.